BLOOD THIRSTY, THRUSTS KNIFE INTO CONSTABLE

Charles Titus, constable at Donora, is in the Memorial hospital at Monongahela suffering from three stab wounds, inflicted by Neal Perkins, a colored man His assailant was captured and is locked up in Donora.

Titus was stabbed twice in the left arm and once in the left side below the heart. His condition, while serious, is not thought to be critical.

Perkins had had a quarrel with another negro in a saloon Friday evening. A warrant was sworn out before Justice of the Peace W. L. Coatesworth by the other negro, who alleged that Perkins had drawn a knife on him. The warrant was given to Titus who found Perkins in Cypress alley and served it.

As the constable was taking his prisoner to the police station, the latter suddenly reached into his pocket and drew a knife, a patent affair which opened on pressing a spring, and stabbed the constable three times He then ran away. Titus fired at him three times but missed him and then sank down exhausted from the loss of blood. He was found shortly afterward and taken to the hospital.

The police and the state constabulary at once started in search of Perkins and he was arrested and taken to the police station. An additional information was made against him and he will be taken to the jail in Washington.

Titus is 32 years old and single He is regarded as one of Donora's best officers.

Miners Walk out on Strike

As the result of an alleged disagreement between the miners and the checkweighman of the Ellsworth Coal Co., Cokeburg, over 700 men walked out and the mines closed down indefinitely. The miners claim that the checkweighman is giving them short weight and as the company stood by the checkweighman and the matter could not be adjusted satisfactorily to the miners, they decided to strike.

New Law For Justices of Peace

Justices of the peace elected at the recent general election must, in the observance of the new law, notify the prothonotary of the county wherein they have been elected of their acceptance of the office within a certain period Prothonotary W Dick Hunter expects the newly elected justices of the peace will comply with that law at their earliest convenience.

Wounded Man May Pass Away

Sam Sanford who was shot yesterday morning by Jim Bulock was removed to the Presbyterian hospital in Pittsburgh last night on the 6 o'clock train. His condition is said to be dangerous and he may not recover from his wounds.

Bulock was given a preliminary hearing last evening before Squire Watkins and held for court on a charge of felonious shooting. When informed of the precarious condition of his victim, Bulock seemed greatly worried.

W. S. Bumbaugh Highly Honored

W. S Bumbaugh, president of the Monessen Foundry & Machine company, has received an invitation to attend the third Pennsylvania Welfare Efficiency and Engineering conference to be held in the hall of the house of representatives in the capitol at Harisburg on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. The invitation was sent out in the name of Governor Brumbaugh The conference is called for the purpose of familiarizing the public and the various departments of the state government with the work of the separate departments which have to do in a responsible manner with state engineering projects, natural resources and industries Talks will be given by the heads of the various departments, descriptive of the work under their control and its relation to the public. Addresses upon subjects relating to the work administered by the various branches of the state government co-operating in the conference will be given by men qualified to speak upon the subjects.

MAN KILLED WHEN AUTO TURNS OVER

Charles Matthews, 40 years of age and manager of the Peoples Real Estate company at Charleroi, was instantly killed at 3 o'clock this morning when his automobile skidded and went over an embankment into a corn field near Waynesburg. Mathews and two other men were on their way on a hunting expedition and had departed from Charleroi at midnight and had proceeded to about two miles west of Waynesburg when the car became unmanageable and precipitated over a steep embankment. Mathews was pinioned under the car and was dead when extricated. The other men escaped with slight injuries

The hunting party was composed of two auto loads. D. R. Duvall was following the Mathews car a little ways behind. His car contained four passengers. The body of Mathews was brought to Charleroi some time this afternoon. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Full Cast For Home Talent

Affairs are fast coming into shape for the farce comedy "Facing the Music" to be produced at the High school auditorium Friday night. Director James S. Russell is having a special setting made for the play, which is being completed today. The first rehearsal was held in the auditorium last night. For several weeks previously rehearsals were going on in Charleroi.

The story of the play is being kept a secret, but it has leaked out that it will be a mix-up over the name of Smith. The plot may be said to evolve from the fact that there are too many Smiths Rev. Smith and his good wife get into family difficulties because another man by the name of Smith, in an attempt to save a

Suffragists Thank the Newspapers

This paper has received a letter of thanks from Mrs. L. C. Fox of Irwin, chairman of the press committee of the Westmoreland county suffrage association extending thanks for the courtesy and generosity of the columns of the paper throughout the campaign and also thanking the local voters for the generous support given the cause. During the campaign this paper published without restriction the arguments of both sides so that the voters could arrive at a conclusion from actually studying the question.

Court Room Is Improved

After making repairs, additions and improvements, Squire A.N. Shuster has added greatly to the facilities and appearance of his court room. As soon as his election for an additional five years was an assurred fact, a contract was let for re-finishing and enlarging the court room. The Justice now sits on an elevated seat, the same as Common Pleas and other judges and the witness is seated by his side in a specially designed witness chair. A jury book is provided at the left of the Justice in case he desires to call a jury to hear cases of great importance. The adjoining room is equipped so the jury may retire and deliberate.

This room will be used for couples waiting to have the marriage ceremony performed should they appear during a session of court.

Mr. Shuster is justly proud of his new court room and well he may be, for there is none better equipped anywhere. Mr. Shuster has been Justice of the Peace for the past eight years. He has been twice elected and once appointed In his case people seem to take the position that a good judge should be kept on the bench as long as his services are satisfactory. Mr. Shuster's age will not permit him to retire during his term on a pension.

ON TRIAL FOR SHOOTING HIS SWEETHEART

Samuel Calgers of Monessen, is on trial in Greensburg. He refused to accept the presents he had given Elizabeth Ferara as well as call off their engagement to marry. This is a case where "love and lead" failed to work.

Miss Feraro is an unusually frank and a bright witness She worked in Monessen. In August, Miss Ferara said she met Calger in Wireton, a suburb of Monessen where he was playing in a band with a carnival company. The cornet player and the young maiden fell in love, Miss Feraro said in Judge Copeland's court. The young lady said that Calger joined the regular army and went to Oklahoma, she wrote him two or three letters each week She admitted that up until August 25th she expected to marry Samuel. But she changed her mind on September 4th and she mailed him the rings and jewelry he had sent or given her; informing Calger that she would not wed him.

Calger refused to take back the jewelry he had given the young lady. On the evening of Oct. 3 he came back to call on Miss Feraro, but as she had company he had little opportunity.

Next evening when the young man called and insisted that Miss Feraro marry him, she refused, because she said she did not love him any more.

It was then that Calger attempted to kill the young lady, it is alleged. Calger, Miss Ferara testified, shot her in the right cheek, the ball passing through her right shoulder, and the third shot struck her comb and two hair pins in her hair.

The young lady fell unconscious on the floor and Calger thinking he had killed her, started to flee. He was arrested by state police.

Auto Leaps Curb to Tracks

—Constable Frank W. Jones of Charleroi had a very narrow escape last night about 5 o'clock when he was bringing Lee Jones, a prisoner to the lockup. The car skidded while going down Fifth street and ran over the curb and across the railroad tracks. Neither the constable nor the prisoner was injured but they both had narrow escapes.

Hats Off, Sir!

"Hats off to that steel town." That's what they will say when at the approach of the year 1916 we announce to the world that Monessen has a population of 30,000. When the council contemplates the plans now under way, taking in East Monessen, Dutchtown, Grandview and Wireton, this town will be the largest in the county, it will have the greatest industries, the greatest mercantile establishments and the greatest bunch of boosters. And to retrospect, to go back seventeen years and look up rock ribbed hills, one would have said that it would be almost an impossibility to build such a town as we have here today. But it is an actual fact. We have doubled property values several times; have built magnificient schools, churches and homes, and it has all been done on a permanent, conservative and substantial basis.

Some of the people who came here to spend a short season during the boom became attached to the place through the activity, sought investments and are among those who are now a substantial part of the town and who expect to remain throughout the succeeding years.

But today this town is not only the pride of those who live here, but she is the pride of Westmoreland county and a leader throughout the state. She has been made great because of her magnificient industries and the loyalty of her citizens.

Religion in Politics

So much is being said these days about religion in politics. Some say it has no place there, but it has a place there. Wherever there is corruption, religion must go. Not religion as a church, or religion as a congregation, as a cloak to place certain individuals in power, but religion as an institution.

Some men through their individual political aspirations are doing great harm to themselves, the church and their country by attempting to prejudice one religious belief against another. There are elements in all churches that hinder the cause of religion more than they help it. Genuinely religious people are generally tolerant and charitable toward each other's views and they strive to find points of agreement instead of magnifying differences of opinion. No man knoweth the right way and few men on earth care to assume the responsibility of guarding all others. Religion is a faith, a study and should lead individuals to love, honor and respect each other. Religion in politics is good, if religion it be.

What the Butcher Says

Says Mrs. Galt's butcher: "She can tell the difference between a sirloin and a porterhouse steak; between a tendere roast and a tough one. She never carries a memorandum with her and yet she knows exactly what she wants."

We have heard frm everywhere praise of the bride-to-be of the president. But it strikes us that of all of it we like what the butcher says best.

Young men of today who are contemplating matrimony will do well to heed what the butcher says about the future lady of the land. We are still old fashioned enough to believe that the wife who is a poor cook and a careless buyer is responsible for a great many wrecks in the sea of matrimny.

KNOW THY COUNTRY

Nation's Meat Supply

A careful study of the live stock industry will arouse this nation to the importance of preserving the source of its meat supply, and reveal a most startling condition of affairs. This important industry, valued at five billion dollars by the last census report, is showing an annual decline in number of head produced of approximately one and a half milion. We have in a decade passed from the leading exporting nation on the globe to importing over a million pounds of dressed meat per annum and over a half million head of meat animals on the hoof.

A full realization of the import of this condition has caused the federal government to turn its attention toward the preservation of this industry The following excerpts are taken from the Agricultural Outlook, the official publication of the United States department of agriculture:

"Three distinctive classes of meat animals supply nearly the entire meat production of this country. These are cattle, sheep and swine. There has been a decided absolute decline in the number of cattle and a considerable decline of sheep, with the prospect of continued decline until the sheep industry can be established primarily on a meat basis with wool as a by-product Swine have declined during the last three years, but still the number is absolutely larger than in 1910, although the per capita number is diminishing. In view of these circumstances, a statement of what is known with regard to the production and consumption of meat in this country must be of national interest. The highest point reached in numbers of cattle on farms other than milch cows, was in 1900, when the number was over 50,000,000, the number declined to 41,178,000 in 1910, and to 35,855,000 in 1914. The consumption during the past decade shows an increase of approximately two billion pounds

In the exhaustion of the supply of public and railroad lands for grazing purposes, the encroachment of settlers upon the ranges, the 'no-fence law, the practice of dry farming, and the upward movement of the general price level in which farm animals, products and land moved upward in price in greater degree than most other products and property did, the upward movement of prices, especially of corn and land, greatly increased the cost of making beef; and, although farmers received high prices for beef cattle these prices often brought little or no profit.

Farmers have never regarded themselves as having a mission to supply the public with beef at a low price. They have naturally treated this industry purely from an economic viewpoint, and whenever they have found that they could make more profit or prevent loss by premature selling of cattle, or by selling some of their production stock, or by selling calves, they have done so. The raising of beef cattle on old-time ranges, on cheap pastures, and on low-priced corn has ceased, and well-informed men perceive that the raising of beef cattle must be established largely on new foundations

FIRST RELEASE IN NEW GOLD ROOSTER SERIES SCORES BIG SUCCESS.

CLIFTON CRAWFORD HAS LEAD

Broadway Favorite Realizes Success in Photoplay Debut—Comedy With Dramatic Situations.

"The Galloper", the first of Pathe's new Gold Rooster Plays to be released, is worthy of the honor thus given to it. Richard Harding Davis, the author, is too well known both as author and dramatist to require any comment, therefore let it suffice to say that "The Galloper" is written in his best style and enjoyed a fine run on the stage. George Brackett Seitz adapted it for a five reel comedy-drama.

Two things in particular strike the observer as he views this fine production—first, the excellent direction—apparent in every scene—of Donald Mackenzie, the producer, and secondly, the really brilliant work done by Clifton Crawford, the famous comedian, in the title role. A character not in the original play, that of "The Unknown", has been inserted by Mr. Mackenzie, with excellent results "The Unknown" is a Turkish spy, and he adds wonderfully to the humor of the play. He was Mr. Mackenzie's own conception and forms merely one of a number of examples of the producer's care and ability. Clifton Crawford proves himself to be an artist of the first rank and worth the very large salary which it is understood he received for appearing in this, his first picture. Without detracting from the fine ability shown by the rest of this really excellent cast, second honors go to Melville Stewart and Jessie Ralph, the first mentioned playing the part of a much married correspondent and the latter as a rich and unlovely widow with matrimonial designs. Fania Marinoff, Rhye Alexander and Sam Ryan give worthy support.

Clifton Crawford and David Burton.

The story deals with a divorced war correspondent who divides his time between dodging alimony hunting divorced wives and various creditors. As a means of relief from his financial troubles he makes love to a brewer's widow, proposes and is accepted. War breaks out between Turkey and Greece, and he seizes the opportunity to dodge his troubles and a fiancee who does not appeal to him by going out as a war correspondent to Greece. It happens that a young American millionaire at the same time is sailing for Africa to hunt big game. On the same steamer are two charming girls who are going to the front as Red Cross nurses. One of them turns out to be the war correspondent's last wife; the millionaire immediately falls in love with the other. Arriving in Greece, the war correspondent finds dodging his former wife too strenuous and resigns his position. The millionaire offers to take his name and act as correspondent for him. From then on there are all sorts of comical misunderstandings, and situations. Scene after scene is a riot of laughter up to the very end where misunderstandings are cleared up, the millionaire is accepted by the Red Cross nurse, and the war correspondent re-united with his former wife.

Despite the fact that "The Galloper" is primarily a comedy, there is plenty of drama and much thrill to it. Pathe is to be congratulated on its first Gold Rooster Play, and Donald Mackenzie upon such a sterling production.

PATHE PITCHER SIGNED BY FEDS

Harry Crandall, Jr., crack pitcher on the Pathe baseball team, has been grabbed by the Federal League for next season. Manager Stallings of the Boston Braves was after him, but the Feds offered better inducements. Young Crandall has been combining working in Pathe pictures with pitching on the movie concern's baseball team, and has made a success of both. For the last four or five weeks he has been letting down opposing teams, which have been the strongest semi-pro organizations around New York, with two or three hits a game.

Still Waters Run Deep

By EUNICE BLAKE

Wilton Page was twenty years old and handsome as a picture He had an oval face, large dreamy eyes and cameo cut features.

Wilton entered a parlor car one day for a journey. On the opposite side were three women. One was about thirty, another twenty and the third seventeen The two younger ones called the oldest Aunt Sue, while she called the next younger Dorothy and the younger Fanny. Aunt Sue seemed to be on terms of equality with the others and was the merriest of the three. Dorothy and she were continually cracking jokes with each other, while Fanny was sober, but childlike.

Wilton, having placed his hand baggage in the rack above him, settled himself in his chair, pulled a novel from his pocket and began to read. He did not therefore observe the effect his manly beauty had on the ladies. Dorothy looked from him to Aunt Sue and back again to him with an expression that being interpreted meant. "Isn't he just too lovely for anything?" Aunt Sue returned the glance, indicating "Handsome enough to kiss." Little Fanny observed the mute comments of her elders, but said nothing.

Dorothy leaned toward Aunt Sue and whispered something in her ear Aunt Sue cast her eyes aside, rested them on Wilton for a few moments, then whispered something in Dorothy's ear. Then Dorothy swung her chair around and said something to Fanny, who glanced at Wilton and shook her head, indicating a negative.

Wilton read on unconscious of the attention he was attracting from those three ladies Indeed, he had not given them a glance on entering the car and had begun his reading as soon as he had settled himself They were all comely, dressed in a manner to indicate that they were persons of refinement, and since women like to be noticed Wilton ignoring them may have spurred them to a conspiracy they concocted concerning him. But of this the reader must form his or her own opinion after hearing what this conspiracy was.

Those were the days when trains on passing through tunnels were not lighted as they are today. On the line upon which these three persons were traveling was a tunnel so long that some three minutes by the watch were required for a train to pass through it. The train reached the tunnel in about an hour after starting. As soon as they entered it Wilton dropped his book on his knee and with his face to the window waited for the return of light. About half the distance under ground had been passed when he felt a pair of arms thrown around his neck and a pair of lips pressed against his own

Having been pinioned from behind, he was powerless to resist the kiss—if he had wished to do so—or to get a hold on the kisser. He tried to clutch the arms, but they evaded him, and all the satisfaction he derived from the attempt was a knowledge that they were covered with feminine material. He reached out wildly in the dark, but came in contact with nothingness.

Nearly two minutes elapsed before the train shot out into daylight. When it did so Wilton swept the car with his glance with a view to discovering who had kissed him. There were a number of women in it besides the three ladies mentioned. Having noted those at a distance, he fixed his glance upon his neighbors Aunt Sue was peering out of the window, and, her back being toward him, he could not see her face. Dorothy was wiping the dust out of her eyes with her handkerchief. Fanny was leaning back in her chair looking up at the car ceiling apparently wrapped in thought.

Wilton formed an opinion that he had been kissed by one of his neighbors. He came to this conclusion because they were so near him and because there was no other woman on the train who looked as if she would be likely to commit such an act. Of the three he fixed upon Dorothy as the culprit. And yet when she finished wiping the dust out of her eyes he noticed an amused rather than a guilty expression on her face. Aunt Sue kept her back turned toward him so long that he was not sure after all that she was not the perpetrator. The only one of the three that he was quite sure was innocent was Fanny. She looked fitted to sit as a model for a Madonna.

When the train reached the terminal Wilton left the car, still uncertain as to who had kissed him. The three ladies left at the same time, and he saw them driven away in a private carriage. They took no notice of him, seeming to be oblivious of him.

One evening not a week later Wilton appeared, handsomer than ever in evening dress at a function. He was walking toward a group of ladies, and when within a few feet of them one of them whose back was toward him turned suddenly and faced him The moment she saw him she turned scarlet.

She was Fanny.

An introduction—embarrassing for the young lady—followed, while a satisfied smile played on Wilton's lips. Since they are now an old couple there can be no harm in stating that she was put up to kissing her fellow traveler by the other two women, who assured her that they would draw the gentleman's attention to themselves as soon as an inspection was made

But what at the time saved Fanny from detection was her admirable nerve.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

WEDNESDAY—"Neal of the Navy," The story: Mrs. Hardin, Neal Hardin, Annette Ilington and Joe Welcher are rescued by a U S. cruiser when the steamer Princess goes down. Pinned to Annette's underclothing is a map showing the location of Lost Isle. Hernandez and Ponto know of the existence of Lost Isle and see the map. Eighteen years later Annette learns from Mrs.Hardin the secret of Lost Isle; and Hernandez and Ponto learn the whereabouts of Annette. Neal Hardin decides to try for Annapolis. After the test Joe slips the stolen exam papers into Neal's pocket where they are found. Neal starts for New York to enlist in the U. S. army. That night in a attempt to secure the Yellow Packet, Joe sets the house afire. Now watch for the thrilling excitement.

FRIDAY—B. A. Rolfe presents the most commanding figure on the American stage, Mr. William Faversnam, aided by the charming actress, Miss Jane Grey. A superb and sterling production of the stirring tale of the limitless north woods, "The Right of Way," from the novel and play of the same name, by Sir Gilbert Parker. The story of a man who repays a debt. Who believes in an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth and who knowing the guilt of a man, saves that man and then suffers a return of scruples and orders the other man out of his life, saying: "Go away, you dog. You are as guilty as Hell." William Faversham in "The Right of Way' 'is an epoch of supreme importance in the universe of photodrama. It brings the foremost dramatic star forward in the foremost novelist's greatest and most impressive tale.

O'NEIL STILL HAS POLITICAL ASPIRATIONS

McKeesport may offer an interesting feature of the next political contest in which Allegheny county will soon be involved. Notwithstanding the fact that the returning board has only begun to canvass the returns of the last election and will not complete its labors for another ten days, plans are being made for this fight.

There is a persistent rumor in the Tube City, and the possibility is being discussed among the leaders in Pittsburgh, that immediately upon the expiration of his term as county commissioner on the first Monday in January, J. D. O'Neil will announce his candidacy for the assembly from the Ninth Legislative district, with notice that in the event of his election, he proposes to be a candidate for speaker of the house of representatives. Another rumor is to the effect that he will seek the scalp of his old political foe, Congressman William H. Coleman, who takes the seat in Washington to which he was elected a year ago next month.

Either of these candidacies would help to keep Mr. O'Neil more or less in the limelight, and, in the event of their success, would serve somewhat in the promotion of the commissioner's alleged ambition to shine as a gubernatorial or senatorial candidate. Either would be in line with his recently made promise to be a candidate for the state office that would give the people an opportunity to express themselves on local option, or prohibition.

Marrying For Votes.

Marrying for votes was a device of old time British election agents. As the law stood before the reform act of 1832 widows of freemen on marrying again made their second husbands freemen and therefore voters. At election times widows were consequently paid handsomely to go through a formal marriage with a voteless bachelor, who for a consideration similarly agreed to support the candidate. The pair were married, the man voted according to instructions, and then he and his wife, standing on either side of a tombstone, said, "Death us do part." With this literal fulfillment of the matrimonial vow they regarded their marriage dissolved. At the last election in Bristol before 1832 a hundred women gave votes [illegible].

Russia In the Sciences.

In the sciences Russia has done admirable work in the right spirit, and if it is less well known than it deserves to be it is because the Russians are not advertisers. How many English boys know that it was a Russian, Lobachevsky, who discovered the non-Euclidean geometry which has revolutionized the science, or how many boys who study chemistry remember that it was the speculation of a Russian, Mendeleyev, which changed by his periodic law of the elements the whole current of thought among chemical investigators? As for history Russians have made the Byzantine age their own. No specialist can afford to ignore their researches.—London Standard.

Peoples Forum

This column is devoted to the expression of the opinion of our readers and in no wise denotes the paper's opinion on or sympathy with any question involved.

Editor Daily Independent:—

Please allow me space to speak on what I regard as a growing evil. I noticed an item in your paper which said that seventeen auto loads of fans accompanied the local High school football team to Jeannette and Turtle Creek and a special train carried 170 rooters to McKeesport, and that enough more went by auto to make 240, and 300 persons went to Monongahela. Are we going football mad? What are we to expect of our sons and daughters if we train them up like this? Football may be all right in its place as a side issue, but when we turn our whole schools loose and allow mere children to travel about the country "rooting," we are going too far.

I am a parent and I want my children to be something more in this world than "rooters." It seems to me that our children are going too far in the football business and at the expense of education, for there are many backward pupils in the schools and who knows but what football is the reason. Let us stop this nonsense before we go too far.

Also I noticed an appeal in the paper a few days ago from the board of charities asking for help. We have hundreds of dollars to spend running to football games, but not a cent for the poor, starving children of the town. How much better would it have been had we taken the money we spent for the special train to McKeesport and contributaed it to the poor of our town? In this way we would be teaching our children to be charitable instead of training them to be "rooters."

I hope these few lines will lead the way so others will see as I see and that in the future we will cut part of this football out of our schools and pay more attention to business.

A Parent.

SUITS BEING FILED AGAINST THOMPSON

Uniontown, Pa., Nov. 9—Suits involving many thousands of dollars were filed here in the local courts against J. V. Thompson by attorneys representing the creditors of the former president of the First National bank of Uniontown. The suits represent money the Uniontown banker is said to have borrowed from men and women in many walks of life in Fayette county. So many have been the suits that the clerks in the prothonotary's office are required to work overtime filing and indexing them.

The creditor's committee, H. L. Robinson, M. M. Cochran, James R. Cray, John M. Core and William Parshall, yesterday conferred with Attorneys Bruce F. Sterling, E. C. Higbee, Ross Matthews and Charles L. L'ewelyn, who represent the receiver of the bank, John H. Strawn.

It was reported that this committee will go to New York tomorrow to confer with Mr. Thompson concerning the quantity and character of assets he has agreed to assign for his creditors. These assets are to be turned over by the end of the month.

Washington, Pa., Nov. 9—Exemplication of judgments entered in Fayette county were filed here yesterday against J. V. Thompson, W. M. Thompson, D. L. Durr and S. C. Hogsett as a result of the financial tangle of the affairs of J. V. Thompson and his associates. The exemplifications were filed here as Mr. Thompson and his associates hold much coal in this county.

Following are the exemplification suits filed: Katherine K. Beeson vs. W. M. Thompson, $16,725; Ellen T. Beeson vs W. M. Thompson, $11,150; Edgar R. Beal vs. W. M. Thompson, $32,200.70; estate of G. W. Ott, vs. J. V. Thompson, $2,679.42; Jacob Pringley vs. J. V. Thompson, $10,916.67, John H Strawn, receiver; First National Bank vs. D. L. Durr, $2,847.74; Farmers Deposit National Bank, Brownsville vs. D. L. Durr, $2,566.29; Uriah Higginbotham vs. S. C. Hogsett, $1,106.17.

Waynesburg, Pa., Nov. 9—Exemplification of records were entered as follows in the Greene county courts today on suits filed in Fayette county in connection with J. V. Thompson's failure: Against J. V. Thompson, $42,000; against W. M. Thompson, $60,000; against A. A. Thompson, $2,000; against F. M. Seamans, Jr., $6,900; against Jasper Augistine, $2,680, against J. T. Barnes, et al $11,000.

Spiegel Closes Engagement

The Great Spiegel musical and vaudeville company closes its engagement at the Monessen opera house tonight. The people will certainly miss them for the band amused and pleased the multitude that listened nightly and his show were unusually good. Everybody who attended commented very favorably on the class of show this company gave for the price. The Great Spiegel reports that he has done good business, exceeding his expectations, taking everything into consideration. The Great Spiegel remarked that he expected to return to Monessen next summer and give free shows and entertainment upon a vacant lot. A big program is arranged for tonight. A great bill for small money. The silver set will be given away to the most popular lady and the show will start at 7:45 A band concert will be given at 7 o'clock in front of the opera house. 1t

ON SALE AT TWO PLACES

Tickets for "Facing the Music" Friday night at the High school auditorium under the personal direction of James S. Russell, chief clerk at the Pittsburgh Steel company, may be had at either Brady's book store or at Eddy's drug store on Donner avenue. While ticket sellers are busy about town, all may not be accommodated readily, so this arrangement has been made for the convenience of the public.

GIRLS IN BAD HEALTH

Hundreds of girls go to work day after day, afflicted with some ailment peculiar to their sex, dragging one foot wearily after the other, working always with one eye on the clock and wishing for closing time to come. Every such girl should rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore her to a normal healthy condition, then work will be a pleasure. For forty years this famous root and herb medicine has been pre-eminently successful in controlling the diseases of women. Why don't you try it?

CLEANS, POLISHES EVERYTHING
PREVENTS RUST EVERYWHERE
3-in-One has been for 18 years the Old Reliable, largest-selling home and office oil. It is light enough to oil a watch; heavy enough to oil a lawn mower. On a soft cloth it becomes an ideal furniture polisher. Makes a yard of cheese cloth the best and cheapest Dustless Dusting Cloth.
And 3-in-One absolutely prevents rust or tarnish on all metal surfaces, indoors and out, in any climate.
Free 3-in-One. Write today for generous free sample and the Dictionary of uses—both free to you. 3-in-One is sold everywhere in 3-size bottles: 10c (1 oz.), 25c (3 oz.), 50c (8 oz., ½ Pint for ½ Dollar). Also in patented Handy Oil Can, 25c (3½ oz.).

The Secret of a Good Figure
often lies in the brassiere. Hundreds of thousands of women wear the Bien Jolie Brassiere for the reason that they regard it as necessary as a corset. It supports the bust and back and gives the figure the youthful outline fashion decrees.
BIEN JOLIE (BE-AN JO-LEE) BRASSIERES are the daintiest, most serviceable garments imaginable. Only the best of materials are used—for instance, "Walohn," a flexible boning of great durability—absolutely rustless—permitting laundering without removal.
They come in all styles, and your local Dry Goods dealer will show them to you on request. If he does not carry them, he can easily get them for you by writing to us. Send for an illustrated booklet showing styles that are in high favor.
